Extractables and Leachables

Paris, France, 24 June 2011

Intertek Expert Services and Intertek Santé et Beauté are pleased to invite you to this seminar.

Event summary

Don't miss this vital seminar on extractables/leachables!

You will benefit from expert guidance through this complex area, from a detailed discussion on extractables & leachables testing concepts of packaging and materials used in pharmaceutical processes to hands-on experience demonstrated by several case studies. The seminar will also include strategies and practical examples of the identification of impurities and the investigation of material failures as well as a guidance to interpretation & assessment of E&L data versus regulatory aspects.

Why participate?

- Learn how to design extractables and leachables studies
- Gain valuable insight from experienced professionals in the field
- Better understand the issues associated with extractables and leachables studies
- Get inside knowledge of problem solving technologies and methodologies

Who should participate?

- R&D scientists and managers
- Analytical scientists and managers
- Packaging developers
- Quality assurance managers
- Regulatory managers

Language

The workshop will be conducted in French and English with simultaneous translation in French.

Speakers

Dr. Armin Hauk

Head Trace Analysis
Intertek Expert Services

He studied environmental chemistry and geo-chemistry and earned his PhD from the University of Bayreuth (D). Since 1995 he was working as a laboratory scientist and, since 2000, has headed up the trace analysis group, the GLP testing facility and the GMP quality control laboratory of CIBA in Basel, Switzerland. Dr. Hauk is responsible for organic trace and ultra-trace analyses; special analytics for registration; migration studies; extractables and leachables studies for pharmaceutical packaging; GMP quality control analysis; and for stability tests.

Vincent Jeanguyot

Intertek Analytical Services
Intertek Expert Services

After graduating from University of Dijon (F), he started to develop his analytical expertise in the field of additives for polymers and coatings at Clariant Huningue (F), supporting both R&D and technical service departments. In 2000, he joined Ciba Specialty Chemicals and became responsible for the Migration and Analytical Technical Service group. In 2010, he joined the Trace Analysis group of Intertek Expert Services and is currently managing various analytical projects focusing on packaging materials for the food and pharmaceutical industry.
